

Sung-Jo Park (Editor)

Technology and Labor in the Automotive Industry

Papers of the Seoul International Symposium (1989)
sponsored by the Korean Automobile Manufacturers Association

Campus Verlag
Frankfurt/New York

Table of Contents

Preface by the President of KAMA, Kim Sun-Hong

Introduction Prof. Sung-Jo Park, Berlin

Sung-Jo Park, Berlin

Prospects of the World Automotive Industry in the 1990s.....11

I. New Technology and Manpower

Jean Jacques Chanaron, Grenoble

New Concepts of Work Groups and Work Organization in the French Car Industry.....51

Oscar Marchisio, Milano

Technological Innovation and Emergence of the Real Organization in the Assembly of the Tipo at the Fiat Cassino.....69

Mica Jovanovic, Beograd

"The Business of the Century": The Decoupling of Business and Self-management.....91

II. New Technology and Labor Relations

Rebecca Morales, Los Angeles

Work Organization, Technology, and Labor Relations in the U.S. Automobile Industry.....105

Ulrich Jiirgens, Berlin

New Technology, Work Organization and Industrial Relations in the Federal Republic of Germany.....139

Stephen Wood, London

Developments in the British Car Industry in the Mid-Eighties.....163

III. The Japanese Strategies

Tetsuo Abo, Tokyo

New Technology and Manpower Utilization in Japanese Automobile Firms in Japan and their Plants in the United States.....185

Masayoshi Ikeda, Tokyo

The Transfer of Flexible Production System to Japanese Auto Partsmaker Transplants in the U.S.....207

Authors